

Amos Ouattara
1983-2025

It is with profound sadness that we remember Amos Ouattara, who passed away suddenly on September 22, 2025, in London at the age of 42.

Born in Abidjan, Côte d'Ivoire, Amos built an exceptional career in finance and investing. He began at Goldman Sachs in distressed investing (2009-2012) before moving to KKR's Special Situations team, Mount Kellett Capital Management, and ultimately Alcentra, where he served as Managing Director and Deputy Portfolio Manager for Special Situations funds. He also served on the boards of Groupe Pierre & Vacances-Center Parcs, FRAIKIN, and Winoa.

A graduate of HEC Paris and École Polytechnique, Amos was known for his sharp intellect, unwavering drive, and commitment to mentoring others. His colleagues remember him as both a skilled investor and a generous leader who took time to coach and develop those around him.

Amos is survived by his wife and two young children, ages one and four. His sudden passing leaves an immeasurable void in the lives of his family, friends, and all who had the privilege of working alongside him.

At his funeral, friends he had mentored read Michael Josephson's "What Will Matter"—a fitting tribute to a man who understood that true success is measured not by what we accumulate, but by what we give and the lives we touch.

Amos lived a life that mattered. He will be deeply missed and long remembered.
